International Semester Programme:

International News Reporting

Spring semester 2021 (forår 2021)

at The Danish School of Media and Journalism - Aarhus

Spring semesters: January (week 5) - June (week 24)

Autumn semesters: August (week 34) - December (week 51)

The semester in Denmark combines journalistic training with intensive studies.

In the course of a one-semester programme you will learn about foreign affairs and global news, you will practice international and EU reporting, you will learn modern research tools and gain skills in multimedia storytelling, and you will expand your views on world politics.

Your semester concludes with a multimedia project based on your own research as a journalist in Denmark or another European country.

The objectives of this semester:

- To master basic methods in foreign news journalism
- To experience the work of a foreign correspondent
- To increase your knowledge of EU affairs and EU reporting
- To enhance your knowledge about the dynamics of European integration, institutions and processes
- To attain knowledge of media's roles and working conditions in modern crises and conflicts
- To know the main theories of international affairs and the main developments in world politics
- To enhance your expressional journalism skills by adding elements to your multimedia toolbox
- To develop your journalistic skills by working in an environment that combines practical teaching with academic studies
- To establish lifelong professional and personal bonds by being part of an international group of students from all over the world

The programme

The international semester programme runs every semester. Course contents and teachers may change from semester to semester. The following gives an overview of the semester.

Media platform: Multimedia journalism

Throughout the semester we are working on different media platforms, enabling the students to choose and mix text, audio, video, photos and other visuals in their journalistic output.

All students are offered introduction to basic principles of e.g. photography, video and sound recording, video and sound editing, infographics, data visualisation. The main journalistic assignments are made public via the DMJX online publishing platform.

Overall theme, aims and outcome:

The overall theme of the international news reporting semester in Denmark is "reporting the world with a closer view; journalism with a local, European and global perspective." The semester allows you to combine journalistic training with intensive study and field reporting.

Aims

- Acquire a transnational perspective on issues that are of critical importance in today's local and global society
- Enhance awareness of national versus international reporting, and of the journalist's role in a global society
- Get inspiration to work internationally
- Strengthen the professional and personal foundation for a future career in journalism

Skills

Students will be able to:

- structure, plan and carry out journalistic research at an international level
- identify new and critical angles in traditional stories, and obtain and verify information from a wider range of sources
- understand and apply methods and practices in key areas of journalism
- utilise state of the art methods for the production of journalistic stories
- manage own resources and time effectively
- work in a self-organised way, individually and in groups

Attendance: (mødepligt/deltagelsespligt)

Students are expected to attend all classes, group work, lectures, and other scheduled activities.

Grading: (prøveform)

Grading by the Danish 7-point grading scale.

The course (People & Politics: Semester Project) is graded based on the submissions (including the project package and the written and oral analyses). Students must actively participate in the People & Politics activities and have related submissions accepted in order to have their project package approved.

Working load for this course shown in the Study Activity Model:

Course load, grading and attendance

The programme is a full course load semester programme run in English.

Group work and coaching are given high priority.

Students are expected to attend all classes, group work, lectures, and other scheduled activities. If for some reason students can't attend, they are expected to notify the school in advance. In case of illness they may be asked to hand in a medical certificate (for further information see the Student Handbook).

The Danish 7 point grading scale is used. The grade is transferred to the ECTS grading system. Translation to the national grading system of the individual student is handled by the student's home university.

Rules for resits and grading

Workshop teachers may ask students to redo or adjust specific tasks or assignments, in case of these being insufficient, or to improve them.

No student who has received a passing mark for an assignment will be permitted to resubmit in order to gain a better result; the first result stands.

Each student has three chances to obtain a passing mark for each course. Special regulations apply for the final project.

Examination rules and regulations are available via Study Office and the DMJX virtual classroom/intranet.

Programme Policy

At the Danish School of Media and Journalism we strive to uphold the standards of excellence in Journalism. We require the students to uphold the IJF standards of journalism in all their work according to The IFJ Declaration of Principles on the conduct of journalists adopted by the 1954 World Congress of the IFJ, and amended by the 1986 World Congress (see www.ifj.org).

Additional lectures

Guest lectures at the Danish School of Media and Journalism and other institutions will be offered during the programme.

Excursions and travels

There will be time for individual excursions and travelling for reporting projects (at students' own expenses).

Alumni

See the LinkedIn alumni site Danish School of Media and Journalism alumni for journalists of present and former participants in the school's different international programmes. Please remember to mention Danish School of Media and Journalism in your own LinkedIn profile, and link in for the alumni.

Facilities at the Danish School of Media and Journalism

(Please consult the online student handbook for more details about the facilities.)

Phone:

We expect that you have a mobile phone, and that you buy credits for your phone upon arrival. For long distance calls, we advise students to buy global cards/other cards or use Skype.

Video and audio - DMJX equipment:

For your multimedia productions you can borrow the school's video cameras, microphones and editing computers upon availability. If you have your own equipment, we do recommend that you also bring that along (laptop, photo camera).

Computers and email:

The school has computers (Mac) for the use of students, upon availability. You can use the school's wireless network for free with your own laptop, smartphone, tablet.

You will be granted an email address at the school, to be used during your stay in Aarhus. The email address is needed in order to receive relevant messages, access course material, and submit assignments. We expect you to check your DMJX email at least on a daily basis. The email address also allows you access to the school's computers, printers and wifi.

The school email account will be closed one month after the programme has ended.

Access to DMJX evenings and weekends

If you want to work late or during weekends at DMJX, you need an access cards for the specific room and computer lab. Ask at the reception desk.

Photocopiers and printers:

Each student gets a certain number of free prints. Extra credits for photocopies and additional prints can be purchased.

Library:

The school's library is at your disposal. There are also computers specially set up for international wire services and databases. Your school login gives you direct access from your laptop to these services. The State and University Library at Aarhus University is also open for use, and books from this and other libraries can be ordered through the DMJX library.

Electronic classroom and publishing:

The school uses an intranet (virtual classroom) for study related material and communication.

For online publishing purposes (internal and external), the school's WordPress-based Mediajungle-sites are used. Some productions are published online and/or in collaboration with external partners.
