Danish School of Media and Journalism
Corporate Communication
Course description
Spring semester 2022
Crisis & Change
5. semester

Number of ECTS Credits: 15 ECTS

Aims:

The course focuses on different disciplines and challenges within Corporate Communication. Students will be introduced to selected communication theories, methods, and models which companies can use to understand and handle the challenges in a changing, critical, and global world. In order to be able to strengthen, build and rebuild stakeholder confidence and trust in organizations and industries, the students will gain insight, skills and competences in change communication, corporate social responsibility strategy and communication, issues management and crisis communication. The students will also develop skills in teamwork, in providing and receiving feedback, as well as skills in critical reflection on products and processes.

The primary aims are to

- Establish an understanding of selected disciplines of corporate communication such as change communication, corporate social responsibility, issues management and crisis communication
- Provide students with a basic knowledge of theories and methods within these disciplines
- Teach students to reflect critically on selection and application of theories and methods within the fields.

Pedagogical and didactic approaches:

The teaching is a mixture of lectures with presentations, case work, exercises and reflections, readings as preparation for classes as well as tasks, assignments and projects that the students work with in their study groups. The intension with the teaching is that the students get a good grasp of the theories within the field, so that they can use them to critically reflect on possible options and choices when working with concrete cases. Furthermore, the students should learn to analyse a situation and come up with concrete communication products that translate theories into practice. Finally, developing the students' ability to acquire new knowledge and work independently is also a in focus in this course.

The course finishes with an assignment across the different disciplines where the students can demonstrate that they can use the knowledge and skills they have acquired during the course.

Learning outcomes:

The students will obtain the following during the course:

Knowledge and understanding of:

- How the different approaches and paradigms within corporate communication (ranging from functionalistic to constitutive and co-creative/collaborative) influence the communication process as well as how relationships between organization and stakeholders are built and developed.

- Theories and models of change, crisis and issues management and corporate social responsibility
- The significance of working with and communicating about (strategic) CSR in modern business life
- Different approaches to involvement of employees in change situations
